

Fall in Oregon,

September 4, 2013

After being away from the Pacific NW for 7 years, watching leaves turn color is not the only thing I am looking forward to. I have a teaching position☺! PTL!

An adjunct (part time) opportunity at George Fox University opened up last month. I also received an invitation to organize an English conversation corner there, too. PTL!! The hours are not yet fixed, but will know more after I meet the students this Friday and set up the English Corner. Please remember me EXTRA special.

Once I get the GFU situation established I am hoping to contact other universities and see if I can also start new English Corners on their campuses. Soo glad HE is in control and doors are starting to open. Bless you for pr@ying!

The Charbonneau house is still not finished, but having four GFU Freshman Chinese gals overnight for 9 days definitely motivated me to get new beds and bedding, as well as various pieces of furniture in every room! I still have painting, papering and more electrical that needs to be finished, but I am certainly much closer than three weeks ago.☺ I even found time to take the gals to Silver Creek Falls and Salem. Sooo we had fun along the way.

It was also a joy to have other company/neighbors often for a meal or just a visit. This is such a fun house to share and a lovely neighborhood. I am richly blessed in many ways. We never can OUTGIVE our blessed Savior.

I have yet to meet the Chinese teacher who has come to work in Wilsonville. That is on the docket and Lord willing, I will have something new to share Next time.

My little ole Subaru, having failed DEQ the first time, is now approved to move legally though the Tri-county area. What a relief to also have that behind me! PTL!

I also found time to attend a lovely Manzanita friend's wedding near Silverton. It was a joy to see many special people from the coast. It feels like it has been too long.

Soo until next time...I am adding a few photos and sending it all to Alice, who hopefully is off her crutches and feeling much better. Bless her for her love and gifted service.

As the leaves turn to gold and red this fall, may your lives reflect HIS glory and beauty in every way. Until next month...if not sooner☺
