

Dear Friends,

Last week, three young leaders from Costa Rica arrived in the United States for a four-month Internship in Camping programs. Gerson Valverde, Diego Lobo and Daniela Hernandez will be working the summer at the Cannon Beach Conference Center in Oregon and Camp Sambica in Seattle, Washington.

A fourth leader, Esteban Mora, began a one-year program in January and has done very well. All of these key leaders have served for many years at Camp Roblealto in Costa Rica and will be participating in this exchange program to increase their knowledge and aptitude in Christian Camp methods and programs.

This is the sixth year that we have run the Summer Exchange Program and have seen more than 25 young Latin leaders from countries such as Panama and Costa Rica participate, have their lives changed and continue to change lives through camps in their home countries! Please pray for the aforementioned young people this year.

We also thankful to our Hope Project sponsors and partners the last few years, as we have been able to do seven Hope Project camps since the beginning of 2014, working with kids and teens from high-risk communities and abusive living and family situations.

Take a look at two new videos below. The first is of our most recent Hope Project initiative with single, teenage
