

Dear family,

Presently Raquel and I are back in Calapan, Mindoro working again with the Mangyan translation teams. We all get along very well and it is a joy working with them. They continue to improve in their translation skills and we consultants continue to improve in our knowledge of Taubuid.

About a month ago I sent an update with pictures on the Manobo dedication held in Bukidnon, Mindanao. It seems that some did not receive it. If you had not received it and would like me to try sending it again, just email me. We continue to be very grateful how He so blessed that event. We also recently received an email from Jorge giving us a report of his recent trip to Manobo country. It appears that the reading groups of the translated Word into Manobo continue to meet. Thank you Lord. May they continue reading your Word. Please give us wisdom as to how to guide them.

For two weeks in February, Raquel and I were in The Netherlands attending Yrrah's wedding. We were the only ones of her family or friends from the Philippines who were able to attend her wedding in The Netherlands. So we were glad we were able to be there for her. She and Jan Daniël also seemed to be grateful for our presence. Raquel and I stayed in their home while they were on their honeymoon. We still spent time working on our translation projects while in the Netherlands but when we got tired, we enjoyed hiking and biking around the woods and countryside nearby. The Lord gave us enough nice days without rain to do so. One day we saw Noah's ark with Jan Daniël's parents. On another day we hiked around the narrow roads of Amsterdam enjoying all the canals scattered throughout the city.

Thanks once again for your prayers and support - they are much appreciated.

Yours in His service and for His Word,
Kermit and Raquel

Not bad for a selfie. Walking in the woods near where we were staying, we came across these sand dunes, in the middle of The Netherlands.

Our last supper with the newly married couple before Raquel and I flew back to Manila.

Our day trip in Amsterdam. Not sure how many miles we walked.

Inside Noah's ark.
